

IN THE UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE

In Re Application of:

MJSI, Inc.

Trademark Attorney: Kelly McCoy

Serial No.: 77/789,960

Law Office: 107

Filed: July 27, 2009

Docket No.: 171901-3220

For: HYDROFLUSH

RESPONSE TO NON-FINAL OFFICE ACTION

Commissioner for Trademarks
P.O. Box 1451
Alexandria, VA 22313-1451

In response to the Non-final Office Action dated November 5, 2009, Applicant hereby submits the following remarks.

I. No Similar Marks

Applicant notes that the Office records have been searched and there are no similar registered or pending marks that would bar registration under Trademark Act Section 2(d), 15 U.S.C. § 1052(d).

II. The Mark is Not Merely Descriptive

The Office Action refused registration under Trademark Act Section 2(e)(1), 15 U.S.C. §1052(e)(1), based on the assertion that Applicant's mark is merely descriptive. Applicant respectfully traverses this rejection and maintains the mark is not merely descriptive for the reasons set forth herein.

A. The Mark Does Not Merely Describe the Goods

The Office Action asserts that Applicant's mark is merely descriptive "because the applied-for mark merely describes the feature, characteristic, purpose and function of applicant's goods." See Office Action, p. 1. Applicant contends, however, that Applicant's mark HYDROFLUSH does not merely (or only) describe Applicant's goods, but is at least only suggestive.

A word is capable of functioning as a trademark even if the word is suggestive of qualities of the product, but not entirely descriptive. See Playboy Enters., Inc. v. Chuckleberry Publ'g. Inc., 687 F.2d 563 (2nd Cir. 1982) (finding the mark PLAYBOY not merely descriptive despite the court's admission that the word does describe at least some aspects of the magazine's readership). Indeed, a descriptive term immediately and clearly conveys characteristics of a product, whereas a suggestive term only indirectly conveys these things. See, e.g., Levi Strauss & Co. v. R. Josephs Sportswear, 28 U.S.P.Q.2d 1464 (T.T.A.B. 1993) (finding ACTION SLACKS for pants not merely descriptive). Thus, Applicant submits that imagination, thought, and perception are required to reach a conclusion as to the nature of Applicant's goods.

In resolving whether a mark is "merely descriptive," the term "merely" means "only." See In re Colonial Stores, Inc., 394 F.2d 549, 157 U.S.P.Q. 382 (C.C.P.A. 1968). In other words, when considered with the particular goods, a merely descriptive mark does nothing but describe the goods. See id. (emphasis added). Applicant's mark does not directly describe, but at most only suggests, characteristics of Applicant's goods. Certainly, the word HYDROFLUSH, on its face, does not have a merely descriptive significance. In fact, in order to reach a conclusion about the precise nature of Applicant's goods (i.e., dual flush toilet flush valves, among other characteristics), a consumer would necessarily need to use imagination, thought, and perception. Accordingly, Applicant's mark is not merely descriptive.

Finally, as stated above, Applicant's mark does not convey a real and unequivocal idea of some characteristic of the products, but rather some reflection is necessary on the part of the consumer. In addition, any doubt is to be resolved in favor of the applicant when determining whether a mark is merely descriptive or only suggestive, on the assumption that competitors have the opportunity to oppose the registration once published. See In re Gourmet Bakers, Inc., 173 U.S.P.Q. 565 (T.T.A.B. 1972) (any doubt in determining the registrability of THE LONG ONE for bread is resolved in favor of applicant "on the theory that any person who believes that he would be damaged by the registration will have an opportunity ... to oppose the registration of the mark and to present evidence, usually not present in the ex parte application, to that effect."); In re Conductive Systems, Inc., 220 U.S.P.Q. 84 (T.T.A.B. 1983) (doubts under Section 2(e) about the merely descriptive nature of a term are resolved in favor of the applicant); In re Aid Laboratories, Inc., 221 U.S.P.Q. 1215 (T.T.A.B. 1983) (PEST PRUF for animal shampoo with insecticide held on the suggestive side of the line).

1. The Nature of Applicant's Goods is not Immediately Conveyed by the Mark HYDROFLUSH

Applicant's mark is not merely descriptive because it does not immediately convey the characteristics of Applicant's goods. The Office Action alleges that Applicant's mark, HYDROFLUSH, immediately conveys that the goods are "valves utilizing water to empty toilets.<sup>1</sup> See Office Action, p. 2. However, the terms “hydro” and “flush” when used in relation to goods can have countless meanings, as is evidenced by the numerous registered trademarks that contain these terms. Further, while the terms “hydro” and “flush” may be suggestive of Applicant’s goods, they can also be suggestive of a multiplicity of other goods, as evidenced by the numerous meanings attributed to the terms. See Exhibits A and B (numerous definitions for the terms “hydro” and “flush” from www.merriam-webster.com). Certainly, HYDROFLUSH does not only convey the immediate idea alleged by the Office Action. Accordingly, Applicant’s mark does not immediately convey the characteristics of the goods.

At most, Applicant’s mark suggests characteristics of the goods; nevertheless, suggestive marks are registerable. “[A] designation does not have to be devoid of all meaning in relation to the goods/services to be registrable. TMEP Section 1209.01(a); see also Cullman Ventures, Inc. v. Columbian Art Works, Inc., 717 F. Supp. 96, 13 U.S.P.Q.2d 1257 (S.D.N.Y. 1989) (a family of AT-A-GLANCE marks for calendars, such as WEEK-AT-A-GLANCE or MONTH-AT-A-GLANCE, was found suggestive of format, but not directly descriptive); Playtex Products, Inc. v. Georgia-Pacific Corp., 390 F.3d 158, 73 U.S.P.Q.2d 1127 (2d Cir. 2004) (the term WET ONES (for pre-moistened wet wipes) is too generalized to directly describe this product; it could plausibly describe a wide variety of products.).

2. “HYDROFLUSH” Does Not Have a Well Understood and Recognized Meaning

The Office Action has not shown that the term HYDROFLUSH has a well understood and recognized meaning. See TMEP Section 1209.03. The Office Action alleges that Applicant's mark is descriptive because Applicant intends to use the mark HYDROFLUSH on "valves utilizing water to empty toilets." See Office Action, p. 2. In support of this assertion, the Office Action cites to online definitions for the words "hydro" and "flush." However, not only has the Office Action failed to show any well understood and recognized meaning for the term "hydroflush," but, as evidenced by the definitions provided with the Office Action, both "hydro" and "flush" have multiple meanings. See Attachments to Office Action (the term "hydro" can also mean "affected with an accumulation of serous fluid" or "combined with hydrogen"; the term "flush" can also mean "to turn red...blush" or "to glow, especially with a reddish color"); see also Exhibit A (various other definitions for the term "hydro"); Exhibit B (numerous definitions for the term "flush"); Exhibit C (the term "hydroflush" does not appear in the dictionary). As such, the Office Action has not shown that the term HYDROFLUSH has a well understood and recognized meaning, but has, in fact, presented evidence that the separate terms "hydro" and "flush" each have multiple meanings.

Accordingly, contrary to the statements in the Office Action, Applicant respectfully asserts that the evidence of meanings of the terms "hydro" and "flush" set forth in the Office Action actually supports the conclusion that HYDROFLUSH does not have a well understood meaning. Specifically, due to the significant differences in the possible definitions of "hydro" and "flush," Applicant asserts that HYDROFLUSH cannot be said to read on a known structure. Thus, Applicant asserts that HYDROFLUSH does not have a well understood and recognized meaning.

Further, Applicant notes that the Office Action did not present a dictionary definition for the term "hydroflush" to support its assertion of well-known meaning, likely valves."

because one does not exist. See Exhibit C (search results from www.merriam-webster.com for “hydroflush”). In addition, a search of www.wikipedia.org also yields zero results for the term “hydroflush.” See Exhibit D (search results from www.wikipedia.org for “hydroflush”). Thus, Applicant asserts that HYDROFLUSH does not have a well understood and recognized meaning.

III. Conclusion

Applicant submits that publication of the Applicant's mark is believed warranted. Applicant, therefore, requests that the rejections be withdrawn and the mark proceed to publication. If the Examining Attorney believes that a telephone conference will expedite the processing of this application, the Examining Attorney is invited to call the undersigned attorney.
